Accountability and Delegation

- The principles of accountability and delegation apply to all members of the nursing team including Registered Nurses, Healthcare Assistants, Assistant Practitioners, Nursing and Trainee Nursing Associates and nursing students and Nurse apprentices.
- Whatever your role you need to know what is expected of you, what you can and cannot do and who is delegating that work to you.
- Who has assessed your competence to undertake new skills?
- You should have a job description telling you what your main duties and responsibilities are and who to report to.
RCN position ..

• Registered Nurses cannot perform every intervention or activity for every patient or client, so they have to decide which tasks to delegate to other members of the wider team.

• HCWS work under delegation from registered practitioners and should not be expected to make ‘stand alone’ clinical judgements. They should work within guidelines and protocols and should be supervised (in varying degrees) by the registered practitioner.

• Nursing associates recognise and work within the limits of their competence and are responsible for their actions. A registered professional listed under the legislation (registered nurse or GP) will need to supervise the practice of that NA.
Current Challenges for GPNs

- Today’s ageing population and the increasing prevalence of multiple comorbidities, combined with the drive to shift patient care from hospitals to the community,
- All media attention on GP pressures and GP shortages with little media attention to the nursing pressures
Current Challenges

◆ GPs are struggling to fill the vacancies with nurses of similar experience. Poaching and recycling of GPNs quite common.
◆ Inconsistent orientation and training and lack of career structure for nurses new to general practice
◆ Evidence suggests general practice is seen to be a “risky choice” for a newly qualified nurses and this impacts on recruitment
◆ Growing confusion of nurse titles in General Practice
Key Areas of concern

- New GP Contract and NHS Long term Plan pays only minimal attention to GPNs workforce issues (primarily around Fellowships)
- Lack of Parity of Pay Ts&Cs with new AHPs to general Practice
- Eroding of role
- In some areas lack of nursing involvement in PCNs
- Growing pressures and demands on General Practice
Three short Question

- Are you thinking of leaving your employment in the next two years
- What has influenced your decision
- What could your employer do to encourage you to remain in Practice
Offer maternity pay in line with that given when working in agenda for change. We are an agenda for change practice but only for the pay scales.

Pay & terms/conditions, aligned to AFC.

Better gp and management support.

More nurses.

Less tick boxes, more caring, not employers fault. GP practice now solely a business.

Improve my grade / pay equality with other team members.
Good practice, fantastic team and partners that listen to everyone.

Job satisfaction

I work in a lovely practice that is supportive, friendly, near home/school, the pay is not great but everything else outweighs this

Supportive practice, staff and opportunities to develop

Lots of opportunities in primary care

RCN activity

RCN supporting GPN Leadership Programmes

Working with other stakeholders on ‘Good Employment Guidance’ in General Practice to include terms and conditions and working towards a clearly defined career framework.

Working closely with AAGPNE to provide a consistent approach to GPN Education

As part of SSEC policy and evidence programme undertake gap analysis for workforce data across all publicly funded settings e.g. social care, public health, prisons, primary care
